BAD CHECK OPERATORS NUMEROUS

TWO MEN UNDER ARREST
AT MIAMI WORKED HERE

LARGE NUMBER OF WORTHLESS PAPER MANIPULATORS SAID TO BE WORKING IN FLORIDA AT THIS TIME.

In the arrest at Miami of W. M. Barton and W. A. Gerling, two smooth check manipulators, two men have been captured who have recently operated in Daytona and the disposition of the case for which they were taken in Miami will be watched with interest here.

The two men are supposed to have operated in a number of places in the state recently and bogus checks drawn by them are said to have been turned down at the Merchants bank here before the cashing of a bogus draft in Miami, which landed them in the hands of the officers. The two men are now being held in the Magic City under bonds of $1,000, and will soon be given a hearing.

The officers in Miami believe that Barton is a real crook, but that Gerling is a sort of understudy in the business. It is believed they have a long line of criminality behind them in this section of the country.

Both men had been stopping for some time at Halcyon Hall in Miami and yesterday afternoon informed the clerk they had decided to leave the city and wished to pay their bill. In payment they tendered a draft for a good sized sum, and were paid the difference in cash. Leaving the hotel they started for the depot, and soon after their departure the clerk began to grow nervous about the draft. He consulted Mrs. Marsh, proprietress of the hotel, and was advised to connect with the New York bank on which the draft was drawn. A reply was soon received saying the draft was bogus, no account being kept at the bank by either Barton or Gerling. In the meantime the two men returned from the depot, having missed their train, and were soon after placed under arrest.

Worthless check operators have been numerous in Florida during the past few weeks and at least six bogus checks for large amounts have been turned down by the Merchants bank in this city during the past month. Cashier Fred Conrad says he has never known of so many bad checks being worked in this part of the country as within the past month. Extreme caution should be exercised by all persons in cashing checks for strangers.

The residents of Cocoa and that vicinity are much pleased that the steamers of the Coastal Inland Navigation company are extending their runs from Daytona to that city.

NO SURPLUS MONEY FOR THE BANKS

TREASURY DEPARTMENT TO HOLD CASH IN WASHINGTON

SECRETARY M'VEAGH SAYS THE BANKS DO NOT NEED ASSIST-ANCE AND TRANSFER WOULD BE UNWISE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Secretary Franklin MacVeagh of the treasury department announced today that he will not deposit any of the surplus money of the United States treasury department in the national banks throughout the country.

Secretary MacVeagh says he does not think the present conditions warrant such action, and he believes that to transfer $25,000,000 to $50,000,000, as proposed in the Levy resolution presented in the house of representatives Tuesday, would disturb the public security.

A dispatch received from Assistant Secretary Bailey of the treasury department, who has been visiting a number of western cities investigating conditions, states that the western section of the country does not need the assistance of the treasury department.

NEW LAWS WANTED BY WICKERSHAM

ATTORNEY GENERAL WOULD CONTINUE WAR ON TRUSTS

IN ANNUAL REPORT TO CON-GRESS HE ASKS FOR LEGISLA-TION TO CONTINUE PROSECU-TIONS NOW UNDER WAY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—A demand for legislation permitting the department of justice to carry on its litigation against the United States Shoe Machinery company and the so-called coffee trust was the most important measure advocated by Attorney General Wickersham in his annual report, which was read in both houses of congress today. In addition of the trust legislation, announcement was made of a second procedure against the Lehigh Valley coal and railroad companies at an early date.

Strong commendation of the recent decisions of the supreme court in cases of the Standard Oil company and the American Tobacco company was also contained in the attorney general's report. He stated that in his opinion no additional legislation to limit and define the Sherman anti-trust act was needed.

PUT SIX SOCIETY GIRLS IN PADDED CELLS IN JAIL

YOUNG WOMEN ARE HYSTERICAL
WITH FRIGHT WHEN INITIA-TION INTO EXCLUSIVE CLUB IS CONCLUDED.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Dec. 5.—With a large number of prisoners in adjoining cells shrieking and groaning, six society girls were initiated into the Entre Nous club last night by being blindfolded, led to the county jail and incarcerated in padded cells in the section where the maniacs and violent prisoners are confined.

The county sheriff permitted the initiation to be carried on at the jail and instructed the prisoners to make the scene as weird as possible by keeping up demoniacal yells and groans.

When the girls were released they were hysterical with fright.

BELIEVED IN TURKISH CAPITAL THAT ACTION OF GREECE IS IN-FLUENCED BY THE OTHER BAL-KAN ALLIES.

BELGRADE, Dec. 5.—Servia is determined to have an outlet in the Adriatic sea and is maintaining a firm attitude toward Austria.

The Servian people are now shifting their attention toward the north, where war with Austria is becoming hourly more threatening. The premier declared today that "Servia cannot allow Austria to rob her of the fruits of the victory over Turkey."

Greece's Attitude Explained—

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 5.—Although peace negotiations between Greece and Turkey have been broken off by the former, it is said here the armistice will be signed within a few days.

In some quarters it is declared that Greece is playing a sly game and acting secretly in accordance with the program arranged and understood among the Balkan allies.

Greeks Bombard Avlona—
VIENNA, Dec. 5.—A dispatch received here today states that two Greek warships are bombarding Avlona, the most important seaport on the lower Albanian coast. The fire is especially directed against the buildings over which the Albanian flag is flying.

Negotiations Begin December 13—
LONDON, Dec. 5.—Negotiations for peace in the treaty between Turkey and the Balkan allies will begin here Friday, December 13, and will probably last for a month. Speaker Danneff of the Bulgarian chamber of deputies will probably preside.

SURPRISED THEIR MINISTER
ON BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY.

Wednesday evening, a short time after the close of the prayer service, about 30 of the members and friends of the Christian church assembled at the parsonage on South Palmto avenue, giving the minister, S. Linneaus Jackson, an enjoyable birthday surprise, it being the anniversary of his birth.

Ice cream and cake had been provided by those taking part in the surprise and after the enjoyment of these refreshments and a pleasant social time together, the self invited guests departed, leaving behind them, however, many good things as a reminder of their visit.

JUDGE STILL HAS THE $50

Condition Competitors Did Not Seem to Notice Went With Offer of Prize.

The walking craze of a few years ago gave a well-known sporting man an opportunity which he could not resist taking advantage of. He had handbills widely distributed on which was stated:

"A Great Crosby gentleman will give $50 to the man, woman or child who first succeeds in doing the following task: To walk from the Pierhead (Liverpool) to Crosby village. There each competitor must buy a meat pie and walk around the Big Stone and eat it."

About a hundred entries were received, and the walk took place on Whit Monday. Much excitement prevailed and a great cheer rose as a local pedestrian was seen leading the rest of the crowd. His meat pie was soon eaten as he walked round the stone, and he went to the judge for the $50.

"Why," exclaimed the judge, "I didn't think you could have done it. The stone seemed too hard to eat."

"What's that go to do with it?" asked the ped.

"Everything to do with it," answered the judge, "and nobody gets the $50 till they do."—London Tit-Bits.

DIDN'T WANT TO BE HARSH

Merchant Simply Had Idea of Doing a Good Turn to the Young Lady Typist.

"An old customer of mine from the interior of the state came to town a few days ago," said a Philadelphia wholesaler, "and after leaving his order for the goods he asked the privilege of sitting down to my desk to write a letter. I took him to one of the typists and told her to get his letter up in good shape, and the two worked over it for half an hour. Then the man came back to me with his letter in his hand and said:

"Mr. Blank, this typewriting business is a great thing."

"Yes."

"And that's a fine girl who did the work for me."

"Yes!"

"She made her fingers go like lightning."

"Yes, she is very speedy."

"Seemed to be perfectly willing to oblige."

"Yes."

"A very nice girl, indeed, and I hope that she'll get on. In fact, I want to put in a word for her."

"That's kind of you. What is it?"

"Tell her," he said, as he glanced over his shoulder, "that if she'll pay a little more attention to her spelling she'll come out at the top of the heap. Tell her in a way not to hurt her feelings."

"But what words has she spelled wrong?"

"He held out the letter and pointed to a word and whispered:

"The young lady got one 'r' too many in the word, but tell her as gently as possible."

"The word was 'coffee.'"

Girl Walks to Work Asleep.

Miss Nellie Lerra, a pretty young girl of Point township, in her sleep early this morning arose from her bed and walked to a local cap factory, where she was an employee. She was barefooted and attired only in a flimsy low-necked night gown. She was not seen by anybody and finally reached the factory and was about to try to enter when the tooting of a locomotive close by woke her.

Realizing her predicament, the girl grew excited and ran back home at top speed. She fell senseless from nervous exhaustion to the floor of her home.—Northumberland Correspondent Pittsburg Post.

Proper Course of Life.

A man's purpose of life should be like a river, which was born of a thousand little rills in the mountains; and when at last it has reached its manhood in the plain, all its mighty current flows changeless to the sea.—H. W. Beecher.

 wittiest poems in English literature,

Tales of Cities.

One Benefit.

To top off an expensive education a young married woman of no particular ability in any one line took a course at a dramatic school. She never attempted to secure an engagement, so one day a close and candid friend of her husband asked what good all that training had done, anyhow.

"So far as I can see," he said, "that $300 you spent on Ethel's dramatic education has been practically thrown away."

"Oh, no, it hasn't," returned the husband mildly. "Her stage experience has taught her to dress in a hurry.
 Nowadays when I ask her to go any-place with me she can change her clothes in ten minutes. It used to take over an hour."

In the Wrong Department.

The meek looking man walked up to the book counter. "I want something to keep me at home at night, show me my faults, tell me how to spend my—" "Hold on, old man," said the clerk; "you're in the wrong department. Marriage bureau on the left, three aisles down."

Must Have Been in Boston.

The mother of a priggish little lad
 of seven inquired what ailed him, drawing her deductions as to some trouble, mental or physical, from his heavy frown. "Nothing ails me, mamma," said the child, slowly. "What makes you ask me? Do you think that every time my brow is wrinkled
 I have something on my mind?"

HOW NATURE LEADS US ON

After the Courtship Dreams With Their Bright Hues Come the Bables' Future Dreams.

Love is an illusion. Some seem to take it as a bitter thing that after the honeymoon the married pair settle down to the humdrum of everyday-ness. But, in the first place, they never quite become entirely disillusioned. The stain of the rainbow lingers in the average marriage, and in the second place, even if this illusion passes, another comes, for there are the children, and lover and lass who once dreamed of each other now are father and mother and must dream of the bables' future.

Illusions are Nature's device for getting things done. That is why she fills young men so full of illusions as to their own power. Heaven help us if young people knew precisely what they could do! They would do nothing at all.

And if girls knew just what marriage was going to be, and all their future down to the grave, they would never marry. Illusions are Nature's bait.

Life itself is progressive illusion:
 "Maia" the Hindus call it.

And we are not poor dupes. Nature is not cheating us, and sneering at us the while. She is leading us on to love, as we lead our little children.—
 Dr. Frank Crane in Woman's World.

FLOATED TO THE NEW SITE

Village of Provincetown Was Put on Rafts and Moved Across the Bay.

Commercial street in Provincetown had an origin in keeping with its present nautical air and appeal to the imagination. The town originally stood on the spit of sand far out across the harbor, where the light-house now is. Many years ago the government bought Provincetown, houses and all, in order to protect the harbor from the threatening sea. The Provincetownians went to the government and asked what they were going to do with the houses.

"Pull 'em down, of course," said
 the government.

"Can't we have 'em?" inquired the late owners.

"Sure," replied the government. "If you'll take 'em away."

"Sure!" echoed the Provincetown-
 ans.

Old wreckers that they were, they applied their technique to the problems of housemoving. They bulkheaded their dwellings up, necklaced empty casks about them in the way of life-preservers, and one sunny morning
 the village of Provincetown, true to its maritime traditions, set sail, schoolhouse and all, and came floating gayly across the harbor to where it now stands. Near the railway track today they point out a certain store as the original seafaring schoolhouse.—Robert Haven Schuchler in the Metropolitan Magazine.

IS DEMAND FOR ORANGEWOOD

Trees Sacrificed for Building Sites in San Gabriel Valley in California.

The sale of orangewood is a new and profitable industry, which is being developed by the owners of Michilinda tract in the San Gabriel valley. The wood is being cleared from building sites in the subdivisions and it is being sold for $22 a cord. It is said to be used in the manufacture of manicure implements.

The orangewood harvest is something new in real estate tracts. Usually wherever an orange tree grows it is something to be cherished and protected, but at Michilinda there are whole groves and some of them must be sacrificed to allow space for building.

Through a remarkable orchard system established by the former owners of the Michilinda site many of the choicest building lots now afford a selection of orange, lemon and tan-gerines. Thus the builder may establish his home in a grove of semi-tropical trees, where he may select his breakfast grapefruit or orange as it hangs on the trees outside his dining room window.

Already the orangewood which has been sold from this suburb has netted more than $2,000 and this from trees cut for the drives and streets through the residential park.—Los Angeles Express.

The natives of Hawaii are large consumers of albatross eggs, which are secured principally from the island of Laysan, the Hawaiian group. These eggs are so plentiful on this island that they are gathered in wheelbarrows and carried to the shore in boxes and loaded on a small industrial railroad.

ROOM AND TEACHER FOR HIGH SCHOOL

CROWDED CONDITION HERE
PREVENTS THE BEST WORK

COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD IN SES-SION THIS WEEK TAKES AC-TION TO RELIEVE THE PRES-ENT CONDITION.

DELAND, Dec. 5.—The Volusia county school board met in regular convention here this week with all members present.

Applications from Grant Logue and
 E. S. Taylor, referred to Commissioner Prevatt at the last convention, were refused. Transportation was granted to W. M. Warensford.
 Commissioner Prevatt reported the purchase of six desks for the Orange City school. Commissioner Woolwine reported the purchase of a stove for the Barberville school. Commissioner Crouch reported that he had let the contract for a pump at the Spruce Creek school, the same to cost $50.

He also recommended that the Spruce Creek school house be painted. The matter was referred to Mr. Crouch with power to act. The board authorized Mr. Crouch to purchase the necessary amount of wood for the Blake school, the same to be paid for from the sub school district funds of District No. 7. Commissioner Woolwine was authorized to remove a sufficient number of seats from the Folwers school to supply the Braddock school.

Petitions from Haw Creek, Rogers,
 and the colored people of Eldridge,
 asking for schools, was each granted.
 The superintendent was authorized to supply desks and a teacher for Haw Creek and teachers for Rogers and Eldridge. The Eldridge term was limited to three months, commencing in January.

A letter from Supervisor Espedahl relative to the use of the Blake school house for church purposes was read, and his recommendation that the use of the house for further religious purposes be prohibited, was approved.

The request from the trustees of the Seabreeze high school for a raise of salary for the assistant high school and eighth grade teachers was refused, the financial condition of the board forbidding the increase of teachers' salaries at this time.

The bill of Conrad & Oates against
 the Holly Hill school was approved
 and ordered paid. The funds of the board forbidding the increase of
 teachers' salaries at this time.

The bill of Conrad & Oates against
 the Holly Hill school was approved
 and ordered paid. The funds of the board forbidding the increase of
 teachers' salaries at this time.

The funds of the New Smyrna district being insufficient to cancel bills incurred by the trustees of the district, the bills were ordered paid from the general fund until such time as the special funds are sufficient and the superintendent was ordered to correspond with the trustees relative to incurring further expense.

Mrs. Hollie McClellan was re-instated to her former place in the Kingston school without contract.
 Prof. W. H. Britt was regularly appointed to fill the vacancy as principal caused by the resignation of Miss Pannell.

The fact the Daytona high school has for some time been turning away pupils because of the lack of room and teaching force to accommodate them, the board granted an additional teacher and the necessary fixtures for an overflow room, to be placed into operation at once.

The superintendent was ordered to notify C. W. Stout that after this month the board will no longer pay transportation for his children to attend the DeLand school, since Mr.
 Stout is said to live within two and one-half miles of the Glenwood school, and county and state regulations prohibiting the payment of transportation from one district to another where there is a school in each district.

The superintendent was authorized to have 500 teachers' directories printed at once.

A delegation consisting of A. A.
 McKenzie and G. V. Futch presented a petitions signed by four patrons of the Glencoe school asking that the teacher be removed and a substitute placed in the school. The evidence submitted not being sufficient to justify action by the board, it was ordered that the school board meet in the Glencoe school house Saturday morning, Dec. 7, for the purpose of an investigation, at which time evidence from each side will be heard and referred to the property authority. The superintendent was authorized to instruct the teacher to convene school in regular session at the time stated and to be prepared to present her side of the question. The superintendent was also ordered to notify all patrons and persons interested in the school to be present.

All schools were ordered closed from Dec. 20 for the Christmas holidays and reopened Jan. 6, 1913. The board requests that as many Volusia county teachers as possible attend the Florida Educational association, which meets in Ocala December 31,
 and January 1 and 2.

ALL GRIST FOR THE BRIDE

Other Women in the House Have Small Chance of Receiving Bundles That Are Sent Home.

An uptown woman who nearly got stalled in a Ninth street car with a bundle of merchandise gave this reason for carrying home her own parcels, according to the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"There is a prospective bride in our boarding-house," she said. "Everything in the dry-goods line is grist to the mill of the woman about to be married. Other women who have the misfortune to live in the same house shop under difficulties. The only way they can insure the enjoyment of their own purchases is to carry them home.

"If the things are delivered the bride snaps them up. Possibly she has no real shopping propensities, but circumstances combine to make her a thief. Servants bring to her room all parcels of whatever size and shape that come to that front door.
 So many of the things do belong to her that to send the label or item to what the delivery boy says is considered superfluous exertion. And the bride is usually thankful of a preliminary examination. Ecstasically she rips off wrappers and digs into contents.

"Yesterday I heard her raising the roof because a certain shop sent her six pairs of black silk stockings.
 Instead of the pink, blue and tan she had ordered. After she sent the stockings back and had the money refunded I discovered the stockings were mine. I cannot afford to contribute these parcels to the bride's wardrobe, so I am carrying them
 home."

She Knew.

The city girl, on her first vacation
 in the country, was sitting at the side of the first beau she had ever had, looking at the first full moon she had ever seen in a perfectly clear sky.

"Billy," she squealed ecstatically,
 "how perfectly delightfully dear, and yet how horribly sweetly sad is the music of those toadstools, out there in the woods!"

"Why, darling," breathed William,
 who had been in the country before,
 once—"you can't mean 'toadstools.'"
 The noise you hear is being made by crickets.

"Of course," answered the city girl
 —"you know what I mean. I get the names mixed up. I knew it was something to sit on!"

Appropriate.

Gazing at a group of nine children gathered about a small stoop, an old lady called one of the little girls.

"Are all of these children your sisters and brothers?" she asked.

"Yes, mum," replied the youngster.

"What is the largest one named?"

"Maxie, mum."

"And what do you call the smaller one?"

"Minnie, mum."

HIS PREFERENCE FOR HOME

Oliver Wendell Holmes Unable to Get Any Real Pleasure in the Vaunted "Tavern."

Don't talk to me about taverns! There is just one genuine, clean, decent, palatable thing occasionally to be had in them—namely, a boiled egg. The soups taste pretty good sometimes, but their sources are involved in a darker mystery than that of the Nile. Omelettes taste as if they had been carried in the waiter's hat, or fried in an old boot. I ordered scrambled eggs one day. It must be that they had been scrambled for by somebody, but who—who in the possession of a sound reason could have scrambled for what I had set before me under that name? But! I am wondering why the taverns always keep it until it is old. Fool that I am! As if the taverns did not know that if it was good it would be eaten, which is not what they want. Then the waiters, with their napkins—what don't they do with those napkins! Mention any one thing of which you think you can say with truth, "That they do not do." Every six months a tavern should burn to the ground, with all its traps, its "properties," its beds and pots and kettles and start afresh from its ashes like John Phoenix-Squibb.

No; give me home, or a home like mine, where all is clean and sweet, where coffee has pre-existed in the berry and tea has still faint recollections of the pigstails that dangled about the plant from which it was picked, where butter has not the prevailing character which Pope assigned to Denmark, where soup could look you in the face if it had "eyes" (which it has not), and where the comely Anne or the gracious Margaret takes the place of these napkin bearing animals.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

DISSOLVE BONE IN THROAT

Use of Lemon Juice at Critical Time
Is a Thing Worth Keeping in Mind.

Sitting at a planked shad dinner in Yonkers, a laughing guest drew a bone into his throat and he began to strangle. Some one suggested that the sufferer swallow a fragment of dry bread.

"Oh, no," exclaimed an Ossining man. "Don't give him bread. It might catch the bone and it might not. Give him something that is sure to give relief." Beckoning to a waiter, he said: "Bring me a lemon, cut in two." And it was brought without delay. Taking one section, he offered it to the choking guest and told him to suck the juice and to swallow it slowly. Directions were faithfully followed, and in about a quarter of a minute the afflicted one placed the half lemon on his plate, looked into the anxious faces around the table and smiled.

"Well, Joe," said one, "how about it?"

"It's gone," was the reply, "the bone has slipped down."

"Not exactly that," said the Ossining man. "The bone slipped down, all right, but it was melted first by the citric acid. I never knew it to fail to dissolve a fishbone. You can test the power of lemon juice by dropping some on the fishbones you may have lying on your plate."

Several diners tried the experiment. In each case the bone dissolved to liquid solution.

ORIGIN OF FAMOUS PHRASE

Belief that Common Political Term Sprang From a Horse Race Held in Tennessee.

The political term "dark horse" is thought to have had its origin in the following circumstances:

In the last century there lived in Tennessee a "character" named Flynn, an elderly person who dealt in horses. Flynn generally contrived to own a speedy nag or two for racing purposes if he could arrange for "a good thing" during his peregrinations throughout the state.

The best of Flynn's flyers was a coal black stallion named Dusky Pete, almost a thoroughbred and able to go in the best of company.

One day Flynn visited a town where a race meeting was in progress. He entered Pete. The people, knowing nothing of the horse's antecedents and not being over impressed by his appearance, backed the local favorite heavily against the stranger.

Just as the beasts were being saddled for the race, a certain Judge McMinamee, who was the "oracle" of that part of the state, arrived on the course and was made one of the race judges.

As he took his place on the stand he was told of the folly of the owner of the strange entry. Running his eye over the track the judge instantly recognized Pete. "Gentlemen," said McMinamee, "there's a dark horse in this race, as you'll soon find out."

He was right. Pete, "the dark horse," lay back until the three-quarter pole was reached, when he went to the front with a rush and won the race.

Few men would worry today over the mistakes of yesterday if it were not necessary to keep on paying for them.

His Fear.
"Weren't you afraid to go downstairs in the dark last night?" asked a woman of her little son recently.

"Yes, I was a little afraid," answered the boy. "But what were you afraid of?"

"I was afraid of the dark," answered the boy. "But what were you afraid of?"

"I was afraid of the dark," answered the boy. "But what were you afraid of?"

"I was afraid of the dark," answered the boy. "But what were you afraid of?"

"I was afraid of the dark," answered the boy. "But what were you afraid of?"

"I was afraid of the dark," answered the boy. "But what were you afraid of?"

"I was afraid of the dark," answered the boy. "But what were you afraid of?"

"I was afraid of the dark," answered the boy. "But what were you afraid of?"

"I was afraid of the dark," answered the boy. "But what were you afraid of?"

"I was afraid of the dark," answered the boy. "But what were you afraid of?"

CHOOSING A PRESIDENT.

Early Methods That Paved the Way to National Conventions.

History records that George Washington was chosen president of the United States without first having been nominated and even without an opposing candidate. So was his successor in office, John Adams. In the language of the street the presidency was in the case of each of these distinguished patriots "handed to him on a silver platter." The presidency went, as it were, by common consent to the founders of the republic, to whom a grateful people looked for continued service and guidance.

In the early days president choosing, according to the primitive way, was as simple compared to modern methods as a kindergarten exercise beside a course in four dimensional mathematics. Since then the changes, though gradual, have been marked and have led up to our present complicated convention nominations that make the electoral college but a mechanical device for registering the popular decision as between rival party organizations. It was the fuke that almost installed Aaron Burr as president instead of Thomas Jefferson that forced the initial modifications of the plan of president choosing agreed upon by the framers of the constitution.

Originally members of the electoral college were to vote for two persons, the one receiving the highest number of votes to be president and the next highest to be vice president. The danger of a succession that would pull the political lever each time from one side to the other made imperative the change by which the electors should vote for only one person for president and for another for vice president. Two or three object lessons, too, of irresponsible and haphazard action by the electoral college, throwing the choice of president to the house or of vice president to the senate, because no one had a majority of the votes cast, showed the necessity of centering the efforts of the newly aligned political parties each on a single presidential ticket and of imposing on the members of the electoral college a moral obligation to cast their ballots uniformly for the nominees of the party which had elected them.

The forerunner of our national nominating convention was the caucus or conference of members of congress of the same political faith who got together on their own initiative and without any mandate from their constituents assumed to advise as to who, in their judgment, was entitled to be recognized as the party standard bearer. This caucus must necessarily have proved to be too crude and unsatisfactory to serve long as the president choosing machinery. In such an assemblage only those states and districts represented in congress by members of one and the same political party had a voice, and all the others were left without representation. It was to remedy these defects and to enable the rank and file of the parties, wherever they might be, to exercise at least a nominal control of the presidential nomination that the national convention, meeting every four years, came to be evolved as we know it.—Victor Rosewater in American Review of Reviews.

Davy Crockett at the Play.

John Quincy Adams used to occasionally attend the theater, and he was especially pleased with Hackett as Faust. When Mr. Hackett had a benefit it was announced that at the particular request of Colonel David Crockett of Tennessee the comedian would appear in the play called "The Kentuckian." This brought out a house full of overhanging. At 7 o'clock the colonel was escorted by the manager through the crowd to a front seat reserved for him. After a short time the curtain rose, and Hackett appeared in hunting costume, bowed to the audience and then to Colonel Crockett. The compliment was reciprocated by the colonel, and then the play went on.—From "Perley's Reminiscences."

To Star and to Starve.

Charles Matthews, the English actor, once went to perform at Wakefield, where, owing to the depressed state of trade, the drama received no support. He was afterward asked how much money he had made at Wakefield and replied, "Not a shilling." "Not a shilling?" repeated his questioner. "Why, I thought you went there to star." "So I did," replied Matthews. "But they spell it with a 'v' in Wakefield."

But It Didn't.

"When the officials visited the prison a convict knocked against the governor accidentally, and what do you think the man said?"

"What?"

"He said, 'Pardon me.' And the governor answered, 'That lets you out.'"

ORMOND

ORMOND, Dec. 4.—Preparations are being made for the coming of Chief Justice Shiras, who is expected soon.

Mayor and Mrs. Milligan have returned from their trip to Chub, Orlando and DeLand, having had a most delightful outing.

Friday, Nov. 29th, was "Federation Day," at the club, and the members gathered to listen to the excellent and most concise report as given by the delegate sent to West Palm Beach, Mrs. D. W. Waldron, after which Mrs. Edward Corne gave in a delightfully informal talk her impressions of Palm Beach and vicinity. Mrs. Corne was followed by Mrs. J. D. Price, who also gave a very entertaining report of the trip. It seemed a pity that so few of the members were present, but those who were were enabled to catch some of the spirit of the federation brought to them by those who were in attendance. Mrs. Abbott and Mrs. Penfield served.

Mrs. Knowlton's place is being cleared up in readiness for Mrs. Knowlton and her daughter. We are given to understand that Miss Knowlton will bring her auto.

Harry Fluhart is very busy about his cottage and grounds; cannot spend time to get his mail.

C. B. Baker arrived in Ormond last week. Mrs. Baker is expected soon after Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. George Howe are to spend the winter in California, leaving their home about December 6th.

Macon Thornton will arrange to come to Ormond about December 15th. Mr. Thornton has been quite ill from the effects of having a tooth extracted and neuralgia.

E. A. Morris arrived in Ormond Friday.

Mr. Burr is adding a verandah to his small cottage on the river front making quite an improvement.

Messrs. Baker, Adams and Reilly returned Monday afternoon from Jacksonville where they settled, with the district attorney, all claims against their boats. This was the first day the court convened therefore none of the boat cases were called and a number from Daytona were obliged to stay over.

A horse hitched to a post of the verandah in front of the post office Monday became frightened and pulled the post down, also the post office sign leaving the corner of the veranda in rather a dilapidated condition. No one was injured and the post is now repaired.

In accordance with notices posted there is to be no more fishing from the Ormond bridge.

Alfred Clark is building a fine garage.

Israel Putnam and family are spending the winter abroad. J. A. Reilly has charge of the renting of their beautiful bungalow on the peninsula.

Mrs. Frank Colby is recovering from her recent illness and is now able to be up.

The Thomas Fitch grant property is still booming. More people are becoming interested in this ideal spot.

Adams & Givens are catching quantities of fish every day. Wednesday morning they brought in 100 trout, bass and mullet.

Mr. and Mrs. James Carnell returned from DeLand Tuesday where they spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Wright. Mr. Wright brought them home in his auto.

Major Lewis and his wife are planning to come south very soon.

Ed Russell, our market man, disposed of a large number of turkeys the day before Thanksgiving, consisting of western and live native stock.

E. V. Collis is taking a trip to Kentucky to visit his mother and incidentally look after a little business.

There will be a short service at St. James Episcopal church at 9 a. m., Sunday, Dec. 8th, the Rev. Mr. Tuft of Daytona, officiating.

Friday, Nov. 29th, Deputy Sheriff Johnson from Port Orange came to Ormond, arresting Mr. Abbott's chauffeur, the charge being over-speeding south of Port Orange where he collided on Thanksgiving with a horse and wagon. But for the chauffeur's dexterity in handling the car no doubt several of the occupants of the auto would have been seriously injured; as it was only one passenger was hurt, this being Mr. Morris, who was stopping at Rose Villa with his mother, the shaft of the wagon striking him in the chest and tearing the ligaments of the ribs. We are glad to be able to state that this gentleman was not seriously injured and left Sunday for Jacksonville. The court exonerated the chauffeur of all blame.

Mrs. Isabelle B. Stimpson and family leave Boston Dec. 10, en route to Ormond where they will spend the winter.

Miss Ella Foulke and Mrs. Lulu Hall spent Thanksgiving in Daytona.

Dredge No. 3, which has been working on the Halifax river south of the Ormond bridge, left Wednesday night for Fox's Cut, where it will commence work.

Dredge No. 1, which has been working just south of the mouth of Smith's creek, has also left to do work up the canal.

Mrs. M. A. Stout and Miss Anna Owen arrived in Ormond Saturday.

Stanley Carnell, with a full force of plumbers, started the work on A. M. Lindsay's new house Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Bagley, mother of Mrs. Waldron, from Illinois, arrived Saturday.

Mr. Sage and family will arrive in Ormond December 15th and occupy their new house on the river front.

Later reports are to the effect that the infant son of Mrs. Mildred Watson McCurry died Thursday morning.

PASSED AN UNQUIET NIGHT

Traveler, Lost in the Dark, Was Glad to Do Without the Blessings of Sleep.

But I had never slept, a thought to the course I had taken in my gallop across the water. I kept on and on, and before long I grew dark and somewhat cold. So I dismounted, and after thinking it over, I unharnessed the horse and let him go, except head first into a large ant-bear hole for a night's lodging, and made myself as comfortable as possible under the circumstances, using the blanket hide for a blanket. The night was dark as pitch.

Sleep was out of question. I suppose it was the hauntings and the raw hide that attracted the creatures, but before long it really seemed as if I had settled down in a village of wild pigs and insulted the whole community. To begin with, squealing incessantly, they seemed to be racing round and round in a circle, taking me for their center. Then a number of jackals drawing nearer and nearer, joined in the chorus. But I soon discovered that if I disliked the noise I fairly dreaded the silence. During the quiet spells I knew that something was chewing industriously at the projecting ends of the raw hide in which I was enveloped. It was hard work for me to keep from kicking incessantly, but whenever I rested for a minute the chewing developed into vigorous tugs, the significance of which it was easy for one in my position to appreciate.

However, I kicked the night through in safety, and early in the morning, to my delight, I found my horse a short distance away, nibbling contentedly at his breakfast.—Atlantic Monthly.

FOUND AN ECONOMICAL PAIR

Most Joyous Occasion of Life Failed to Make Them 'Loosen Up,' so Young Clergyman's Dismay.

A clergyman in Cherryvale tells Mrs. Moffett that when he was a struggling young preacher and a marriage fee looked like several square meals to him, he was called upon to officiate at the wedding of a wealthy young farmer to the daughter of another farmer, also very wealthy and widely known in the county. The night of the wedding was a stormy one and the train to the little country station was two hours late, so the preacher hired a rig and drove the entire 12 miles, getting there just in time to miss supper. The wedding was a brilliant affair and after the ceremony the groom called the minister aside and told him how much he appreciated his coming through the storm and handed him a $2 bill—not enough to pay the team-hire. As the preacher sat stunned, gazing at the money, the bride's father came in and the groom left. "How much did he give you?" asked the father. "Only two dollars," replied the preacher. "Why, that is a shame," exclaimed the father. "After all your trouble, too. He's terrible close with money. Don't say a word to any one, but take this." And as the old man slipped away the preacher, much touched, opened his hand and found a $1 bill.—Kansas City Star.

Honesty Increasing.

On her return from marketing, the young matron of the upper West side said to a caller: "I believe the sense of honesty is increasing in New York, at least in this locality. This morning I called the attention of a salesman to a small mistake he had made in giving me change, the mistake being in my favor. The proprietor, who was standing near, said to me: 'You're honest. You'll get along all right.' Not so many years ago the thought that seemed far too prevalent in this country was that only some clever form of dishonesty could 'get along all right.' The merchant who could trick a customer was supposed to be the smart fellow, and it was assumed an honest person was sure to get the little end of everything. I am delighted to find even one man who realizes that honesty is actually indispensable to success, and it is especially pleasing to find him in a place where I can deal with him regularly."—New York Press.

Tantalum Pens.

Pens for writing purposes are being manufactured today in Germany by a process which is exciting some curiosity. The trouble found with steel pens is that they oxidize easily and the ink sticks to them. This fault is not to be found with gold pens; but, on the other hand, these are too flexible to be entirely satisfactory. Moreover, in order to form a point suitable for writing purposes, the material of that part of the pen has to be mixed with some hard metal like iridium and this operation is both complicated and expensive. This new pen is of tantalum and comes to the manufacturer in the form of a black powder. The pen that is made from this has the tenacity of steel and the flexibility of gold.—Harper's Weekly.

Sensitiveness of Blow-Fly.

It is well known, says Knowledge, that the blow-fly (Calliphora vomitoria) has an extraordinarily keen sensitiveness to the odor of flesh, detecting it from a distance. Xaxier Raspall has made some observations on the rapidity with which the flies find a bird has just died and he maintains that they do not alight a second before that. An apoplectic pigeon that looked dead, but was not, was left unvisited. A moribund magpie, lying beside two others which had just been killed, was left unvisited, though the flies were on the dead birds just beside it. The instinct not to lay eggs in anything not quite dead seems to be strongly developed. But Raspall goes on to draw the hazardous conclusion that in the article of death an animal gives off a volatile something of infinite subtlety, which serves as a clue to the fly.

A reader asked the sage for advice, saying:

"I am engaged to Kate Murphy, but my former fiancée, Kate Dooley, threatens to sue me for breach of promise. Can you advise me how to extricate myself from this difficulty?"

The reply of the sage was short. It ran: "My dear reader, if I may say so, you seem to have extra-katted yourself already!"

Maintenance of a Microbe.
A country school teacher was cashing her monthly check at the bank. The teller apologized for the filthy condition of the bills, saying, "I hope you're not afraid of microbes." "Not a bit of it," the schoolmarm replied. "I'm sure no microbes could live on my salary."—Lippincott's.

A Billion.
In British computation 1,000,000,000 is a thousand millions. In the United States, and commonly in this country also, it is called a billion, though, etymologically, the British conception that a million millions makes a billion is undoubtedly correct.

Historic Blackguards

Albert Payson Terhune

Aaron Burr, the Man Who Would Be King

THE good people of Jersey in 1773 were horrified by a "fall from grace" on the part of one of their best loved, most promising youths. The lad was seventeen year-old Aaron Burr, son of the Aaron Burr president of Princeton college, son and grandson of famous clergymen. He himself had been prepared for college at eleven and had been a Princeton graduate at sixteen. Then, after studying theology for a year, he calmly announced that he did not believe in religion of any sort. His private life had already proved him to be as lacking in morals as in Godliness.

Burr was only nineteen when the revolution began. He dropped the study of law and enlisted as a private soldier in the patriot army. But he tired of regular military life and went as a volunteer with Benedict Arnold on the Arnold-Montgomery expedition against Quebec. He quarreled with Arnold and joined Montgomery. Then he quarreled with Montgomery and went back to Arnold. He could "get on" with no commander. Yet so bravely did he fight in that unfortunate expedition that on his return he was made a major.

He joined George Washington's staff. He and the chief were about as well suited to each other as a rattlesnake and a war horse. Burr openly sneered at Washington's stiff discipline and lofty honor. Washington found Burr's evil morals disgusting and was enraged at the youth's impudence. Then and there began a mutual and lifelong hatred. After six weeks, Burr left Washington's staff and joined Gen. Israel Putnam's. Though he and "Old Put" did not agree especially well with each other, Burr's courage and military talent raised him, in 1777, to the rank of lieutenant colonel. And he fought gallantly until 1779. Then, sick of war and angry because he was not promoted faster, he left the army.

He had long been one of Washington's opponents and had taken lively part in the Lee and Gates conspiracies against the chief. This and his quarrelsome nature may have been what barred him from promotion. For as long as Washington was in power Burr was made to feel the weight of his enmity. In later years Burr was mentioned for minister to France and for other high government posts. But President Washington always refused him such honors.

Leaving the army, Burr became a lawyer and soon afterward moved to New York. He rose to the height of his profession, married a rich widow and speedily became a mighty power in New York politics. In 1788 he was attorney general, and in 1791 went to the United States senate. In 1800 he "fired" with Thomas Jefferson in the election for president. In order to win the presidency he deserted his political friends and curried favor with his party's foes. But in spite of these and other sharp tactics Jefferson was at length elected. Burr, by the custom of those days, became vice-president.

It was the summit of his career. Then came the gradual fall. Burr had a political quarrel with Alexander Hamilton, which ended, July 7, 1804, in a pistol duel at Weehawken, N. J. Burr killed Hamilton. It was a fair fight, and one man was probably no more to blame, in the quarrel, than the other. Yet Hamilton had been so popular that Burr after the duel was politically crushed.

Smarting with anger at the public's disapproval, Burr went to the southwest and there plunged with feverish energy into a mysterious scheme whose exact nature is still doubtful. The general testimony is that he planned to conquer Mexico and to merge it with Texas, Louisiana, etc., into a great southwestern kingdom, empire or republic, with New Orleans for its capital and himself as its ruler. The scheme flourished for a time, but collapsed when the United States government denounced it and arrested Burr for treason. Burr was acquitted, but found it wise to leave America. He went to England, where he was maturing new plans when the British expelled him as "an embarrassing person." He was forbidden to return to his own country and for a time drifted about Europe, almost penniless.

But in 1812 he sailed for New York disguised, and opened a law office on Nassau street. His genius quickly enabled him to win a new fortune. He added to his wealth by marrying a second widow, Mme. Jumel, who left him after he had squandered much of her fortune.

In the course of the next few years hard luck came again. Old, infirm, poor, shunned by his former friends, his family gone, Aaron Burr finally became an object of charity and died at Port Richmond, S. L., September 14, 1836.

REAL FOUNTAIN OF PUNCH

Provided by a British Officer in 1694
for the Entertainment of Six Thousand Guests.

Some of the papers have recently devoted attention to the origin of punch, that famous seventeenth century drink which has long lost its popularity in this country, though it still survives to some extent in Europe.

Owing to its intimate connection with rum one might easily have imagined that punch originated in the West Indies. In fact, however, it actually came from the East Indies and the name is said to be derived from the Sanskrit "panscha," five, on account of its five ingredients—arrak (afterward rum), tea, sugar, lemon and hot water.

The most magnificent bowl of punch the world has ever seen was probably that provided by the Right Hon. Edward Russell, who, when commanding the British forces in the Mediterranean in 1694, entertained 6,000 guests at Alicante, where a large marble fountain was filled with the liquor, the ingredients being:

Four hogheads of brandy, a pipe of Malaga wine, 2,500 lemons, 20 gallons of lime juice, 8 hogheads of water, 5 pounds of grated nutmegs in weight, 300 toasted biscuits and 13 hundredweight of fine white sugar.

Deeper Than Highest Mountain.

The depth of 9,780 meters to which the founding line of a German survey ship is said to have sunk in the Pacific ocean near the Philippine Islands is some 1,000 meters deeper than the previous deepest sounding. Of the total water surface of the globe, 145,000,000 square miles, about one-third stands more than three miles above the bottom of the sea, but until now no part of the great oceans has been discovered deep enough to submerge Mount Everest. But if there is no mistake about this depth of 9,780 meters (32,083 feet) the world's highest mountain could be sunk there until its highest peak was 3,000 feet below the water's level. The deepest soundings have all been made in the Pacific; 23,250 feet is the record of the Atlantic, in proximity to the West Indian Island of St. Thomas; while the North sea only averages 300 feet, or about one-tenth the maximum depth of the icy waters of the Arctic ocean.

Eccentric Tides.

Owing to the effects of shore lines and other influences which are more or less obscure it is very difficult to account for the peculiarities exhibited by tidal waves in various parts of the world.

Interfering waves cause once-a-day tides at Tahiti and in some other places, while on the other hand in the harbors back of the Isle of Wight and in the Tay in Scotland there are three tides in a day. The latter have been ascribed to overtidings, produced by the modification of tidal waves running ashore and resembling the overtones of musical sounds.

Your Temper and Your Cat's.

Cats are of a high strung and sensitive nature, easily influenced by their surroundings. If you wish a fine tempered, nice little home loving cat you must possess some of these attributes yourself.

You cannot expect to have a very amiable animal if you are cranky all the time. Give the animal credit for being a good imitator. If you are vile tempered and given to striking the kitten, find no fault if the cat has a like manner and strikes people and smaller animals.—Dumb Animals.

Life in Chicago.

One of the many romances of real life which are stranger than fiction is furnished by the career of the Chicago street-cleaning employee who made millions in speculation and in mining investments, married a duchess and died by suicide without a dollar.—New York World.

REGULAR MEETING OF THE LOCAL CHAPTER D. A. R.

MISS S. ELIZABETH STOEVER WAS HOSTESS OF THE AFTER-NOON AND MRS. A. T. BIGELOW PRESIDED.

The second regular meeting this season of Abigail Bartholomew Chapter, D. A. R., was held Wednesday afternoon in the rooms of the Daytona Institute, 216 South Beach street, Miss S. Elizabeth Stoever being hostess for the afternoon.

There was a full attendance and several visitors were present. Mrs. A. T. Bigelow, vice regent of the chapter, presided.

After a short business session the regular program was taken up, Mrs. Bigelow being in charge.

In the subject, Lexington and Concord, the characters were taken as follows:

John Hancock—Miss L. A. Cross. Samuel Adams—Mrs. A. T. Bigelow. Paul Revere and William Dawes—Mrs. C. H. Raynor, who also read Longfellow's poem, "The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere."

A description of the battle of Lexington was read by Mrs. Bigelow. Ticonderoga and Ethan Allen—by Miss Kathryn Thorp, closed the literary program.

Miss Amelia Potter gave a brief account of the work being done by Phoebe Ward Green chapter of Western, R. I., of which Mrs. W. P. Langworthy, who was present, is also a member. Miss Conant, a guest at La Crosse Villa and a member of La Crosse chapter, of La Crosse, Wis., also told something of the work of that chapter.

The usual social hour followed, during which colonial tea, (without tax) was served by the hostess and a pleasant time enjoyed.

Fawn and St. Bernard as Companions. At the little village of Bauma, in Switzerland, a farmer recently found a young fawn in one of his fields.

Fearing that if left alone without its mother some mischief would befall it, he took it home and did everything possible for it. Now, he happened to have a large St. Bernard dog, and this dog and the fawn took to each other.

The fawn slept in the dog's kennel, and when it grew a little older and went out on its walks abroad, the dog accompanied it, and defended it against the attacks of other dogs.

Sometimes the St. Bernard and the fawn would be absent in the woods and fields for a whole day, but they always returned at night, the doors and gate being left open for them. The fawn is now much taller than the St. Bernard, and yet the dog still goes out with it.

Old Fortification Sold. At a Dublin auction mart the martello tower on the island of Shenick, near Skerries, was recently sold. The monument to the old style of resisting invasion was disposed of for a good price, but the name of the purchaser was not disclosed.

Never. The man who goes out to meet trouble never happens to take the wrong road.

GEO. S. BARNES, REGULAR WINTER VISITOR, IS DEAD

PIONEER RESIDENT OF RED RIVER VALLEY IN NORTH DAKOTA PASSES AWAY AT HOME IN THE NORTH.

Daytona will miss another of its regular winter visitors this season because of the death of George S. Barnes, who passed away last week at his home in Fargo, North Dakota. Mr. Barnes has been coming to Daytona for the winter season regularly for several years. Last year he was a guest at the Islington on Ridgewood avenue.

Mr. Barnes was a pioneer resident of the Red river valley in North Dakota and the Fargo Forum and Republican has the following account of his death:

The Red river valley has lost another of its pioneers in the death of Geo. S. Barnes, who passed away at 6:30 Thursday morning at St. John's.

Mr. Barnes had exceeded the three score and ten mark by more than two years and for four decades had been a resident of the Red river valley he loved to well and whose brilliant future he was able to discern so many years ago, when others less foresighted hesitated and doubted. His wisdom had not only brought him large financial rewards, but the confidence he had inspired added greatly to the wealth of others who emulated his example.

Mr. Barnes was an unusually rugged and powerful man, who had withstood many hardships incident to the early life, not only in Minnesota and North Dakota, but in other sections of the great west.

Some months ago he began to suffer from valvular trouble of the heart. More recently he spent several weeks at Battle Creek in an unsuccessful quest for relief. Less than a week ago he returned to Fargo and was taken to the hospital. Little hope was held out for his recovery and he grew weaker daily until his demise Thursday morning.

Mr. Barnes was born in Barre, Vt., of sturdy revolutionary ancestry, April 19, 1840. When he was quite young his parents moved to Ohio. At the age of 19 his spirit of adventure led him to make the trip to the Pacific coast by ox team. He remained there four years and soon after his return he located in 1864 in Oronoco, Minn., where he took Maria Paige to be his wife.

Just 40 years ago last spring he became convinced that the Red river valley held the greatest future of any region in the northwest and located at Glyndon, Minn., established his large farm, which for years has been one of the landmarks of this part of the valley.

In addition to his buying interests he early became a wheat buyer. After being engaged in business alone for some time he became the head of Barnes & Tenny. Then, later, he located his elevator headquarters at Barnesville, Minn., which was named after him. Later the firm became Barnes & Magill, which continued to increase its elevators till it was later organized into the Northern Pacific Elevator company, with Mr. Barnes, president and general manager, positions he held for many years, till ill health compelled him to take a long rest during which he made a tour of the world.

After his return Mr. Barnes located in Minneapolis in 1888 doing a general grain commission business for some years under the name of G. S. Barnes & Co.

Since 1882 Mr. Barnes in addition to his residence at his Glyndon farm and Minneapolis, also maintained a home in Fargo, and for many years had made this city not only his residence but business headquarters.

Mr. Barnes was a man of remarkable energy as well as possessed of unusually keen business foresight. He was a man of affairs and in addition to his large farming and business interests had been active along many other lines in Fargo, having been of great assistance to some local educational institutions.

The deceased is survived by his widow, George and Hector Barnes, his sons, and one daughter, Mrs. Otto J. Morrow.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the First Congregational church. The last rites will be largely attended by pioneers and friends of the bereaved family.

Mr. Barnes was a 32 degree Mason, Shriner, and also a member of Fargo lodge 260, B. P. O. E.

"John, I want you to understand right now that I was brought up every bit as well as you, and know how to behave. And as to my cooking, I can do as well as your mother ever did."

"I had hoped that you wouldn't lose your temper. But if you're going to act this way we may as well drop the matter right here."

"What's the matter, anyhow?"
